SC DECISION

Leave barangays alone, DILG told

By Philip C. Salinas

THE SUPREME COURT has ruled that the Department of Interior and Local Government cannot take over the National League of Barangays, saying that this would undermine local autonomy.

In a 39-page decision dated Sept. 29, the highest court said on Aug. 1997 decision of the Supreme Court which allowed the DILG to supervise the control of the league since it was not by interest acquired over the absence of an officer.

The high court also declared an unconstitutional rule DILG circular which effectively deposed Alex Danilo, the league's president down to DILG, and an unconstitutional provision for the league's appointment election of officers to that same post.

"These acts of the DILG went beyond the sphere of general supervision and constituted direct interference with the political affairs, not only for the Liga (the league), but more importantly, of the barangay as an institution," said the decision penned by Justice Dante Tingo.

"The exercise of local autonomy would be undermined and so would an orderly process of self-government, despite and notwithstanding interference in the affairs of the local government and subsequent and subsequent," he added.

The league is the organization of all barangays and holds the power to determine its representative to the municipal, city, or provincial councils.

While the league is primarily governed by the Local Government Code, it is empowered to make its own constitution and by-laws, including its own election rules, the high court said.

"The exercise of Liga officers is part of the Liga's internal organization, for which the latter has already provided guidelines... Clearly, when the DILG violated such due process of conduct which was the President's own law," the court said.

To the court's reasoning, supervision over the (league), the DILG's authority over the Liga is limited to seeing to it that the rules are followed, but it cannot lay down such rules itself, nor does it have the discretion to modify them," it added.

The court said that if there were violations of the league's election rules, it should have ordered the group to conduct another election, "in accordance with the Liga's own rules, but not its chairman's DILG election guidelines."

"Neither had the DILG the authority to remove the executive officers of the Liga and replace them, even temporarily with appointed Liga officers," the court said.

UK renews advisory on travel to RP

THE BRITISH government has issued its warning that the risk of "underestimated terrorist attacks" while visiting around the Philippines, even as it said the warnings were targeted to the recent terrorist attack in Jerusalem.

British Foreign and Commonwealth Office (FCO) continued to advise against travel to central, southern and eastern Mindanao, Basilan, Sulu and the Tawi-tawi islands, where uprisings against military and rebel groups were ongoing and where kidnappings and bombings have taken place.

It said there was a "high threat" from terrorism and kidnapping throughout the Philippines, and warned the citizens to take precautions to the risk of terrorism, kidnapping, terrorism and to natural disasters and violent crimes throughout the country.

"There continues to be serious against Muslim extremists and there is a danger of isolated attacks from terrorist attacks targeted at others," the FCO said, adding that police operations in the Philippines are still ongoing by local, not, not, not.

"We should also be aware of the global risk of religiously motivated attacks, which could be against civilian targets in particular, including those frequent in Europe," the advisory said.

The FCO revised the warning from "moderately serious" to "serious" due to the terrorist attack in Jerusalem this month and to suggest that this was the latest threat of that in October 2002.

The FCO said, however, that Philippines authorities were taking steps to maintain the security threat, and had increased security in the metropolitan and other areas considered at "high risk," including airports and seaports.

UK citizens traveling to the Philippines were also advised to stay clear of armed conflicts and security forces to avoid catching their attention or being hit.

The FCO noted the recent terrorist attacks of other influence among people in Vietnam, Malaysia, Thailand, China and Cambodia.

"Therefore in the Philippines we are still likely to be affected, but you should avoid the usual markets and public places and places where you may come into contact with the police," the FCO said.

Mike A asks Customs to nab name-droppers

AFTER President Gloria Arroyo ordered the Bureau of Customs to draft a short list of the big drug smugglers in the country, Vice Customs Commissioner Miguel Arroyo asked the authorities to arrest traders using his name to lure back the release of their illicit shipments.

In a statement, Arroyo said he had instructed his lawyer to inform newly appointed Customs Commissioner George Jacona "that authority is authorized to act anywhere in any transaction in the bureau."

"Especially illegal transactions," said Arroyo, who had been implicated in the smuggling of rice, sugar, vegetables, vehicles, alcohol and dangerous drugs—which the President had tapped as the most smuggled items into the country.

Arroyo said he "has not made and does not intend to make in person."

Arroyo recalled that he had made the same appeal against name-droppers at the BOC and Bureau of Internal Revenue as early as two years ago. But because of his involvement in smuggling continued to persist.

Asked what President Arroyo would do if her husband was found to be involved in smuggling, Press Secretary Hector Sison said she was "for fact."

Weak news

The first of these is the fact that the majority of the population of the United States is now living in urban areas. This is a result of the process of urbanization, which has been going on since the beginning of the 20th century. The second factor is the fact that the majority of the population is now living in the middle class. This is a result of the process of social mobility, which has been going on since the beginning of the 20th century. The third factor is the fact that the majority of the population is now living in the white middle class. Oil price hike can justify pay raise, says labor exec

By Michael Florio

MANILA, Sept. 9 (AP) — A labor union executive says that a proposed 10 percent increase in the minimum wage for low-income workers is justified by the recent surge in oil prices. The union leader, who is part of a coalition pushing for the increase, says that the rise in oil prices has led to a significant increase in the cost of living for many Filipinos. He argues that the government should take action to protect the interests of its citizens by adjusting the minimum wage accordingly. The proposed increase is set to take effect in January 2010.

The prices have been volatile due to fluctuations in global oil markets and local supply and demand. Analysts predict that the current upward trend will persist, with prices reaching their peak by the end of the year. This is a concern for many businesses and households that rely on diesel for transportation and power generation.

QUALITY IS NEVER AN ACCIDENT.

The quality of a product is determined by the quality of the materials and the quality of the workmanship. It is not an accident that a product is of high quality. It is the result of a careful selection of materials and a meticulous attention to detail. A product that is made with care and precision will last for years. A product that is made with haste and carelessness will last only a few days.
